

Anesthesia

Procedures performed by oral and maxillofacial surgeons from simple tooth extractions to more complex surgical procedures are often anxiety producing and occasionally associated with some discomfort. Oral and maxillofacial surgeons are not only well trained in the surgical procedures that they perform but also have extensive training in providing the appropriate anesthesia to make your surgical experience as comfortable as possible. Oral & Maxillofacial Surgeons have completed an extensive four year hospital based surgical residency, which includes an anesthesia rotation where they are trained in the administration of general anesthesia. At Dixie Oral Maxillofacial and Implant Surgery one will receive outpatient anesthesia in a safe, state-of-the-art facility from well trained staff and surgeons.

For more information see http://www.aaoms.org/anesthesia_info.php